

APHERESIS DISCUSSION GUIDE

Share your thoughts about your apheresis experiences with your Healthcare Professional

While not a routine part of ET management, this emergency medical procedure is used to temporarily lower platelet counts. If procedures are becoming frequent or you are experiencing any side effects, you may want to discuss alternate care management options with your Healthcare Professional.

You may also want to discuss your management plan with your Healthcare Professional if you have experienced an increase in the number of apheresis procedures.

The following questions may help you discuss your apheresis procedures with your Healthcare Professional:

When would I get apheresis procedures?

How many platelets will be removed during an apheresis procedure? Does that amount change over time?

Do you think I will need more frequent apheresis procedures? If so, why or why not?

To view all of these and other resources online, go to VoicesOfMPN.com

